Masked Robbers Throw Express Safe From Moving Train

ESCAPE IN TWO AUTOS

Messengers Disarmed, Bound and Gagged and Locked in Car—Robbers Jump off at Franconia.

Two masked white men last night boarded the first section of train No. 61 of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad Company, due in Richmond at 12:40 o'clock this morning, and, after overpowering the express messenger and locking him in the car, threw the safe from the doorway of the car and escaped on a heavy grade running up to Franconia, Fairfax county, a short distance south of Alexandria.

It is supposed that the men got aboard the train in Washington which arrived at the Union Station in Alexandria at 9:30 o'clock. It was while the train was nearing Franconia that they entered the express car and ordered the messenger to hold up his hands. The messenger was powerless to aid himself, and was overcome. The robbers then attempted to blow open the safe, and being unsucessful in this threw it off as the train was running at slow speed upgrade. It is not known what was in the safe.

The train arrived at Byrd Street Station Richmond on time, and it was discovered then that the messenger was locked in his car. Telegraph wires flashed back the information, and it was learned that two automobiles had been stolen near Franconia soon after the time of the robbery, and it is supposed that they were used to carry off the safe.

The messenger was released when he arrived in Byrd Street Station, and continued with the train. He did not know at the time, it was said, how much money the safe contained. According to his story, two masked men entered the rear door of his car soon after leaving Washington and threatened him with revolvers if he did not give them the key to the safe. He refused, and was bound and gagged and thrown into a corner of the car. There he watched the men work. They were unable to blow the safe, and, when nearing Franconia, where the train necessarily had to slow down, they picked up the safe and hurled it from the train. Then they dropped off.

The messenger was released when he arrived in Richmond, but the train remained only long enough for him to give a rather disconnected story. The authorities of all the counties and cities between Richmond and Washington were notified and were asked to look out for the robbers. It was learned afterwards that two automobiles had been stolen near the scene of the robbery.

Express Messenger Chambliss was in charge of the car, and Messenger Williams was returning home dead head. Both men were held up.

According to Messenger A. Y. Chambliss, who detailed his experience hurriedly to Southern Express Company officials in Richmond during the few minutes that the Jacksonville Express remained in that city the two robbers broke the glass door of the express car as the train was slowly making its way on an upgrade near Franconia, and thrusting two pistols through the apertures, ordered him to come forward and open the doors.

There was nothing to do but obey. Express Messenger M. M. Williams who was ill, was lying down. In his excitement, Chambliss called loudly to Williams to come to his assistance. The robbers threatened him with instant death if the doors were not opened immediately, and Chambliss reluctantly opened one of the doors.

Immediately upon gaining entrance the robbers covered Chambliss, forcing him at the same time to unlock

NEWS OF THE DAY

The recapture by the British on February 15 of the position south of the Ypres-Comines Canal, which the Germans had taken from them was thrilling. During the bombardment previous to the assault the Germans took refuge in underground dugouts. The British assault was so well-timed and sudden that when they emerged they found the infantry on top of them. Those who showed fight were bayoneted. Many surrendered, some crying for mercy and offering money, watches, cigars, and fruit in order to buy their lives. One German officer was bayoneted while telephoning, presumably for re-enforcements. Four Germans were killed by one of our men who was armed only with a shovel."

Interest in Japan's demands on China, and their effect on the United States, grew apace yesterday. Besides occupying the attention of the State Department, the subject broke out on the floor of the House in an exciting debate led by Representative Hobson. Mr. Hobson spoke on his two resolutions, one of which was offered some days ago. It requests information from the State Department concerning Japan's so-called "twenty-one demands." The second was introduced yesterday. It states that "the people of the United States would view with grave concern and as an unfriendly act any aggressive move on the part of a foreign government against the integrity and sovereignty of China."

A wild demonstration by thousands of men and women against Germany and Austria marked the opening of Parliament in Rome yesterday afternoon. Shouting "Hurrah for Trent and Trieste!" and "Down with Germany and Austria!" the mob surged toward the building intent on forcing the deputies to take action toward intervention in the war. Ten thousand troops rushed to the city in anticipation of the outbreak had to charge the crowd reapatedly before it was dispersed, and it took more than an hour to clear the streets in front of the building.

Priemier Viviani speaking in the French chamber of deputies yesterday said: "The French government, with its allies, will continue the war untiringly until the end. We will continue it until the moral liberation of Europe and the material liberation of Belgium are accomplished; until Alsace and Lorraine are retaken and until heroic Serbia has scored a final victory. "We will contemplate peace only in conjunction with our noble allies. The sacred alliance will save the cause of civilization; it will save the cause of Europe and the world from the tyranny of Prussian militarism. It is not only the government, but the people who think this."

President Wilson told a delegation of women who brought a petition signed by 28,000 persons asking an embargo on exports of war materials yesterday that such an embargo, in his opinion, would be an unneutral act. The gravity of the European situation, the President said, made it necessary for the United States to be absolutely impartial and careful in its attitude. He added that he appreciated the humanitarian motives which prompted the women.

FIRE MEETING TONIGHT.

Conference to be Held at Chamber of Commerce at 8 O'clock.

The meeting arranged for tonight at 8 o'clock at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce when the fire protection of Alexandria will be discussed is expected to bring together a representative number of business men and city officials. The matter is one of vital importance for it is said that a raise in the insurance rate affecting every person in the community will follow the refusal of the city authorities to meet the requirements of the underwriters.

Among those who have been invited to meet the representatives of the National Board of Underwriters are Mayor Fisher, the members of the Board of Aldermen and the City Council, the chief of the fire department and officers of all of the fire companies, the city engineer and members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants' Association.

UNITED STATES AND GERMANY

Issue Clearly Drawn and Kaiser Must Now Make Next Move

MEETING OF CABINET

Not Believed American Ships Will Be Destroyed and a Clash With This Country Precipitated.

Washington, Feb. 19—The issue between the United States and Germany on the war zone declaration is now clearly drawn, and the next move is Germany's.

The attitude is unchanged, but if any American vessels are sent to the bottom of the sea the United States will be drawn squarely into the European conflict.

This is the prevailing temper of mind in Washington today. Most officials refuse to believe that Germany will be foolhardy enough to allow any American ships to be torpedoed, with its trail of consequences likely to be disastrous to all Germany's hops of winning the war.

Administration officials, however, see not the slightest concessions made to the United States in the German reply to the American protest, and, in fact, believe that it makes the warning ever stronger for all neutral vessls to keep out of British waters.

The most important cabinet meeting in many months was held today in President Wilson's library, and the cleancut issue between the United States and Germany over the war zone declaration was practically the sole topic of discussion. The German reply to the American protest was dissected, and it is understood, the course of action and policy for the United States in the event that submarines sink an American steamship was tentatively mapped out.

Reports are said to be reaching the State Department showing the reason for Germany's recent measures of retaliation on Great Britain. It is stated that American consuls are sending in reports of a shortage of food in both Austria and Germany and that the situation is extremely bad in Austria.

GERMANY'S REPLY.

Inflexible in Purpose But Couched in Friendly Terms.

Berlin, Feb. 19—Germany's reply to the note of the United States protesting against a submarine blockade of the British coasts sets forth firmly the position of Germany, but at the same time the document is couched in cordial terms and shows a spirit of friendliness toward America. The German reply, which has been transmitted to Washington by Ambassador James W. Gerard, explains that Germany's drastic naval policy toward Gerat Britain was made necessary by the attempt of England to cut off food supply of Germany's civil population.

One of the proposals contained in the document is the suggestion that the declaration of London be ratified in accordance with a suggestion made by the United States at the outbreak of the war thus enabling Germany to import food and raw materials. With this ratification, it is pointed out, Germany would be in a position to modify her maritime policy.

THE OLD NEW HAMPSIRE HOME.

Arthur B. White and company presented last night at the Opera House, one of the most dramatic plays ever given in this city. It was "The Old New Hampshire Home," in three acts, with thrills of laughter and plenty of drama. It will be repeated tonight.

The management has reduced the price to 15c and 25c. All who attended were greatly pleased and a large house is expected tonight.

SCENE IN THE HOUSE

Hot Words Exchanged by Members Yesterday

Washington, Feb. 19—Everything was running smoothly on the pension appropriation bill in the House of Representatives yesterday when Representative Bartlett, of Georgia, arose to remark that he had heard certain people characterize Democrats who fought the administration ship purchase bill as "bolters." Mr. Bartlett denied that he was a bolter, and he used language that aroused Representative Helflin, of Alabama, who insisted that all those who opposed the ship bill did so at the dictate of the "shipping trust." Now Mr. Bartlett is a trust baiter himself and the charge that he was working for one of these combinations threw him into a frenzy.

"I don't propose to be bull-dozed by a braggart or a bully like the gentleman from Alabama," shrieked Mr. Bartlett. Bartlett added that he did not care whether he stood in the good graces of the White House or not.

Then the Georgia member turned his batteries on Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania, an administration member, who helped to whip House Democrats into line on the ship bill Mr. Bartlett referred to Mr. Palmer as "a so-called Democrat." Bartlett took a fling at child labor conditions in Pennsylvania and Palmer said that the Republican machine there dominated by the protected interest, were responsible for these.

At this point Reppresentative Moore also of Pennsylvania jumped into the fray.

"If the gentleman is going to attack our State, I want a chance to defend it," cried Mr. Moore. "The gentleman charges that he was defeated for the Senate by the interest favoring spoliation, but the Underwood tariff and not spoliation cost him his seat."

"It was not the tariff," Palmer shouted back. "It was rum! R-U-M It cost $1,000,000 to seat a Republican in the Senate. The Republican party in Pennsylvania is in a combination with vicious corporations which the gentlemen so earnestly defends on the floor. This hog-combine defeated me."

When Palmer made the statement that all the Republicans from Pennsylvania in the House stood for the interest of the corporations, Reprsentative Farr, of that State, leaped to his feet with a cry of rage. He charged that Representative Palmer was a "paid lawyer," that he appeared at Harrisburg as a legal lobbyist and that he had repeatedly accepted retainers from the Lackawanna Railroad.

Mr. Pamler denied that he was a lobbyist and accused Mr. Farr of uttering a falsehood. Palmer then discussed his professional connection with railroads and other corporations in Pennsylvania.

Representative Farr retorted by saying that what he objected to was Mr. Palmer's "hypocrisy" He charged that his antagonist "was one thing at home, another thing down here."

"Why, Mr. Speaker," shouted Farr turning to address Champ Clark, "he robbed you of two delegates in Luzerne County. He went all over the State under pretense of reform and by every means, honorable and dishonorable—

At this point Farr's time expired and he concluded with a menacing gesture. Representative Underwood then moved an adjournment, expressing the hope that today members would be in better humor.

KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

Engrossing Clerk of N. C. House Dead—Speaker Wooten Injured.

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 19.—Will Aycock, engrossing clerk of the North Carolina House of Representatives, and nephew of the late ex-Governor Charles B. Aycock, was instantly killed, and Speaker Emmet R. Wooten and State Senator Rivers Johnson injured in an automobile accident about three miles from this city at an early hour yesterday morning.

Aycock was pinned beneath the overturned car when the chauffeur lost control.

Speaker Wooten and Senator Johnson were rushed to a hospital where their injuries were attended. Neither is thought to be seriously hurt.

RUSH ORDERS AT THE NAVY YARDS

United States Vessels Assembled at Most Strategic Point

ARE IN CUBAN WATERS

Naval Parade Through Panama Canal Will it is Said Not be Held for a Long Time to Come.

New York, Feb. 19—The Press today publishes the following article.

The Atlantic fleet has been assembled at the most strategic point along the Atlantic seaboard—just off Cuba's south coast, and in easy and sheltered reach of the Atlantic coast or of the Panama canal.

Less than one month ago the fleet received orders to proceed to Guantanamo, Cuba, for winter maneuvers. At that time it was the intention of the officials in Washington to send the battleships and smaller war craft through the Panama Canal, beganing February 16 last, in a big naval parade to San Francisco.

The naval parade was postponed until some time in March. Since the first postponement it has been put off until a further date. It is the consensus of opinion in naval crcles today that it will not be held for a long time to come.

The convergence of the backbone vessels of the American navy in Cuban waters has been attended by an unusual increase of activity in the nation's navy yards. In strange comparison to the usual winter working conditions in the various yards, this month finds evry one of them busy and running with regular or Increased forces.

The unemployment situation in New York has not reached the New York Navy Yard. A visit there yesterday showed the entire plant working at top speed from one end to the other. Day and night the machine shops are busy turning out new parts for America's sea fighters.

AUSTRIA ANGERS ROUMANIA.

Situation Made Acute by Effort to Cut off Communication With Servia

Nish, Serbia, Feb. 9—Roumania probably will be the next nation to enter the war on the side of the allies. Her territory having been violated by a force of Austrians who attempted to cross hr border in order to acquire positions of strategic importance and thus cut off communications between Serbia and Roumania though the invaders were driven back makes the situation acute according to advices from Bucharest.

The Austrians opened fire on Roumanian fomtier guards, and were repulsed with serious losses.

King Ferdinand of Roumania who ascended the throne on October 10, 1914, upon the death of his uncle, King Carlos I, has sought to maintain his country's neutrality, but it is believed that a recurrence of Austrian aggression would precipitate war.

The King is loved by his people, who are hostile to Austria-Hungary, and it was due to the pacific influence of the late King that Roumania did not enter the war in the early part of the struggle.

The ship-purchase bill was sent to a conference committee of the two houses last evening by unanimous vote. The conference was the result of an agreement between its friends and opponents that it is not to be reported back to the Senate before Saturday, February 27.

An official note issued in Paris last night tells of a mutiny which was plotted in the German army. As a result of the discovery of the plot about 5,000 men, thirty of whom were officers, have been sent back from the front tied together in pairs.

Interesting Addresses in Westminster Building Last Night.

An echo meeting of the 24th annual convention of the Virginia State Sunday School Association, was held in the auditorium of the Westminster Building last evening. There was a good attendance and Mr. John R. Herndon president of the Alexandria City District Association, presided. Reports were made by the delegates who attended the convention and all agreed that in point of attendance, application to work, enthusiasm and spirtual power, it was the largest and best convention yet.

The following delegates made interesting and elaborate reports: Rev. C. R. Strausburg and J. H. Trimyer, of Methodist Protestant Church, Rev. O. W. Triplett, of Second Baptist, Leonard Jackson and Misses Janet Gronau and Atha Swain, of Second Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. Lewis. William H. Melchior spoke in behalf of the State Executive Committee of which he is a member, and urged its hearty support.

Rev. Dr. John Lee Allison also made a brief address and dwelt upon the inter-denominational fellowship that was evident in the convention. All the delegates spoke of the generous entertainment given by the local committee of Charlottesville. The next convention will meet in Newport News.

GERMAN CRITICISM

Press of Fatherland Declares Defiance of United States

Berlin, Feb. 19—Criticism of the attitude of the United States by the German press reached a climax yesterday when the Koelnische Zeitung editorially warned that country that if it misinterpreted Germany's conduct after receiving the reply sent from Berlin to Washington it no longer would be regarded as neutral

The newspaper printed the following comment on the German reply to the note from the American government:

"The German point of view cannot be explained in a more serious or conciliatory way. The note meets the American view to the utmost by advising that convoy of warships be promised for mercantile ships.

"On the other hand, the note leaves no doubt that Germany is determined to defend herself against England's barbarism since the neutral countries are impotent or unwilling to bring pressure upon England to respect the dictates of international law.

"Whoever after this note still misinterpret the sense and nature of Germany's conduct will, as far as we are concerned, be out of the ranks of the neutrals."

Edna Robinson, 15 years old, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson, who are prominent socially in Maplewood, N. J., committed suicide yesterday by standing in front of a mirror in the Jackson home and firing a bullet into her brain. Five months ago the Jacksons brought the girl to their home from an institution at Penikese. She became despondent over the fact that her amusements were curtailed.

The Duchess de Talleyrand, who was Anna Gould, of New York, gave birth to a daughter in Paris yesterday.

GOVERNOR SIGNS TAX MEASURE

Executive and Auditor Highly Pleased With Results of Plan

TAXATION UNIFORM

State Surrenders $476,000 to Counties, Cities and Towns—Scheme Will Tax Hidden Property.

Richmond, Va, Feb. 19—The bill segregating intangible personal property of the State, reclassifying schedule C of the Tax law and fixing the rate for State purposes at 65 cents on the $100 was signed by Governor Stuart yesterday making five of the Tax Reform bills that have received his approval.

Governor Stuart and Auditor C. Lee Morre are greatly pleased with the net results which have attended efforts to have taxes reduced and to make a step in the direction of making the burden of taxation uniform.

They have been working for the segregation plan for sometime, and with it enacted they see that the State rate on real estate, tangible property—horses, cattle, sheep, furniture, books, musical instruments and the like—has been cut from thirty five cents on the $100 to ten cents. This sum is for school purposes.

Not that alone, but the rate on intangible property — stocks, bonds, notes and other evidences of debt—has been cut half in two. That class of property has heretofore been taxed in Richmond at the rate of $1.75 for State and local purposes. Hereafter the rate o n that for the State is fixed at sixty five cents on each $100 while the counties and towns have the right if they so desire, of placing a tax of not exceeding thirty cents for road purposes. Cities have the right to make a levy of the same amount for general purposes.

The State surrenders $476,000 to the counties cities and towns in the shape of taxes on the physical property of steam roads—tracks, station warehouses and the like. That all goes to the localities, except that there is retained on this property the ten cents for school purposes. The localities vested with power to make assessments can add to their levy for this year the twenty-five cents which the State surrendered on that class of property.

The scheme will serve to place taxes on classes of property which have heretofore escaped. For instance, intangibles have been almost an unknown quanity. This is made plain by the excellent work that has been done by some of the examiners of records in the recent past, when they have unearthed estates which have long been silent when the tax man came around. They have poured several hundred thousand dollars into the State's treasury and that of the counties and cities.

Here is the best way to illustrate the tax on intangibles: A woman living in the country inherits $10,000 in bonds at the death of her husband. She will have to pay taxes on that at the State rate of sixty five cents on each $100. The county may, if it sees fit, impose a tax of not exceeding thirty cents on the property for local purposes. That makes a total of ninety five cents. Say the rate under the old plan of taxation for the county was $1.10 and that is a little lower than the average county rate. The State rate was thirty five cents. That would make $1.45. The rate for each thousand would have been a total of $14.50. Under the new law the tax cannot exceed $9.50 for each $1,000. That may be so arranged as not to exceed $6, and unless the county levies the tax of thirty cents the tax will be only sixty cents on each $100 or $6 on each $1,000.

LONG LEGAL FIGHT ENDS

Sergeant Cox Will Remove C. J. Rixey From Staunton Asylum to Marion.

Arrangements are being made by Robert H. Cox, city sergeant of Alexandria, to remove C. Jones Rixey, former president and treasurer of the Virginia Safe Deposit and Trust Corporation, the big Virginia banking concern which failed four years ago, from the Western Asylum for the Insane at Staunton, Va., to the Virginia Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Marion, Va. He notified J. S. DeJarnette, superintendent of the former institution, that he would come to Staunton next Thursday for the purpose of taking charge of Rixey.

The removal of Rixey to Marion will mark the end of a long legal fight which has been carried from the Corporation Court of Alexandria to the Supreme Court of the United States. Shortly after the closing of the bank, when a number of indictments charging Rixey with grand larceny and embezzlement had been returned by the grand jury, a commission sitting in the Corporation Court here found that he was insane. He was ordered to the hospital for the Criminal Insane but his lawyers appealed the case on the ground that he had never been convicted and should not be sent to that institution. Pending the settlement of the case he was confined at Staunton where he has had charge of some of the farming operations of that institution. Both the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia and the Supreme Court of the United States sustained the action of the Corporation Court.

SURPRISE THEATRE.

Malcolm Williams, one of the foremost character delineators of the American stage, makes his initial appearance in motion pictures in the title role of "The Brute," the famous drama of a strong man's triumph over a woman's pride and avarice, by Frederic Arnold Kummer. "The Brute," is a tense, modern drama of the clash of wills between a strong man and a weak woman, the climax of which hangs in the balance until the man, in righteous indignation, exerts his full physical strength toward the subjugation of the woman, and through sheer force brings his willful and mercenary wife to see her folly and lovingly acknowledge him her master for all time.

The wizard Mop is, we believe, biggest $1.25 worth of cleaning material that any one can buy. It is durably made of such fine quality that it will last for a long time, and it is so pleasant and easy to use that no one will ever be without it after once learning its use and value.

It has a 54-inch handle—reaches the floor without stooping; goes under the table and the furniture easily; this handle attaches to the mop with an adjustable joint (like the human elow), causing the mop to set just right for cleaning anything anywhere.

SIGNIFICANT OCCURRENCE.

According to dispatches from Europe, there is trouble in the ranks of the German army, five thousand men having been declared guilty of mutiny. In other words, some of the Teutons are on a strike. They have been placed in irons and removed from the front. Should their example be followed to any extent, the Kaiser would find himself facing a more serious proposition than any which was confronted him during the past six months.

The dark cloud of war hangs low while its thunders are terrifying. So far as can be seen, there is no semblance whatever of a rift. Representatives of the allies stated yesterday in public addresses that they would fight to a finish, and that there will be no separate peace. Nothing will suffice, said they, save the downfall of Germany. The Teutons are equally as defiant. They are battling for their national existence and are determined to die in the last ditch, but while these assertions are being made the number composing a Roman legion commit mutiny—they engage in open insubordination and it is necessary to arrest and manacle them and carry them away less their example is followed by others.

While this ominous occurrence is distressing the Emperor William, reports from a city near Berlin show that potato riots have broken out on account of a shortage.

The municipality announced that it would conduct a sale of potatoes at cheap prices. Thousands of women and children lined up for hours in a pouring rain in front of the municipal building. Finally an official appeared and announced that the potatoes would only be delivered on production of previously issued receipts for potatoes issued at a former distribution and after certain other formalities were complied with. The bedraggled women who were suffering greatly from cold, became furious and attacked the officials soundly thrashing them. Police dispersed the crowd only after the municipal building has been partly wrecked.

While the leaders of the allies and the Germans may be inflexible in their purpose to fight to the death, as time goes on and the fearful cost looms higher and higher, the rank and file may not be so anxious to continue an affray the outcome of which is uncertain.

Mutinies are naturally dreaded by military and naval commanders. They are difficult propositions to handle, especially in the face of enemies.

Many years ago an ordinary seaman in the British navy named Richard Parker started a mutiny on a ship. The defection spread to every war vessel lying in the roads on the southern coast of England. Parker was proclaimed "admiral" and was rowed from vessel to vessel in a captain's "gig," receiving salutes in accordance with his assumed rank. The British Admiralty had considerable trouble in bringing the mutiny to a close.

RICHMOND'S POLICE ISSUE.

Since the mayor of Richmond issued orders for the abolition of the red light district, following the report of the vice commission of that city, whisperings concerning the police department as well as of members of the police board have been heard. The latter have announced their eagerness for an investigation in order to be set right before the community. There are some, however, who prefer to believe that the lid has not been allowed to remain off in the capital city without the knowledge of some whose duty it was to keep down immortality. Those upon whom aspersions have been cast immediately appeared with white roses of innocence in their lappels. We hope all may prove that the inuendoes and whisperings were unfounded.

While the matter is the subject of considerable comment in Richmond, some people in that city are anxious for the abolition of the board of commissioners and desire to place the police force under the exclusive control of one commissioner. Such believe that a single official would bring better results and urge that one man governs the police department of Detroit, Mich.

It is often observed that with all the new moves in the way of political economy it is necessary for communities at times to come back to first principles, as it seems the wisdom of one-man rule in certain departments of a city government is, after all, most practical. Boards at times, act with unanimity, but, unfortunately, this is not always the case. There are occasional divergencies of opinion, when the machinery becomes clogged or operates sluggishly.

the door at the opposite end, admitting his companion in crime. While one covered the messenger the other disarmed him taking from him his revolver and all the money he had on his person.

After making an attempt to open the safe in which the messenger was carrying the valuables with the keys they filched from his pockets the men gave the effort up, and, snatching the fire ax from the wall of the car cut the safe open. Having opened the safe and made sure that there would be no difficulty in getting at its contents, the robbers opened the side door of the car and shunted the iron box off into the darkness by the side of the track.

The safe was a comparatively small affair, weighing not more than 300 pounds. Acording to unconfirmed reports from Washington, it contained nothing of great value. After throwing the safe from the train the two robbers, locked the doors of the express car behind them, leaped from the platform and, it is presumed made their way back to the booty which they hoped awaited them. It is supposed that they made their escape in automobiles.

Chambliss was unable to describe the hold-up men with any degree of accuracy. Both wore masks well over their eyes and half way down their faces. He was certain only of the fact that they were white men and not above the average in size. The home of Express Messenger Chambliss in Washington.

The robbery is the most daring on Eastern railroads since that about twenty years ago at Aquia Creek bridge on the main line of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad, when Morganfield and Searcy held up and robbed a northbound express train, robbing an express car of a large amount. Both men were captured. Searcy turned State's evidence and was given a short term in the penitentiary, while Morganfield, the principal, was given eighteen years. He was only recently released.

The police department of this city received a telephone message from Richmond about two o'clock this morning announcing the robbery of the express car. The officers were requested to round up all suspects and vie with officers in the counties between Alexandria and Richmond in endeavors to capture the guilty parties. Two young white men were later taken in custody and placed in the station house where they are awaiting identification. They gave their names as Edward W. Hoagland and J. C. Cowlings. They claim to be railroad men and say they have been employed on the Philadelphia and Reading road. Hoagland says he was at one time a soldier, which he can prove by residents of Alexandria, where he says he has acquaintances.

Four British steamers and a British schooner of a total tonnage of 11,870, have, it is reported, been sunk off the coast of South America by the German converted cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm, which before the war was a North German Lloyd liner.

Use Two Drops—And They Vanish.

"Murder! Everybody Tries to Step on My Corn!" Use "GETS-IT" and You'll Have No Corns to Be Stepped On.

"GETS-IT." It's the corn cure of the century, the new way, the sure, painless, simple way. It makes a fellow really feel foolish after he's used toe-eating salves, corn-biting ointments, toe-bundling bandages, blood-bringing razors, knives, files, scissors, jabbers and what-nots, when he uses just 2 drops of "GETS-IT" and sees his corn vanish. You won't wince when you put on your shoes in the morning. "GETS-IT" is sure, "gets" any corn, callus, wart or bunion.

DR. A. LURIA HERE.

Confers With City Officials Relative to Location of Factory.

Dr. A. Luria, of Chicago, a physician who is promoting the Dr. A. Luria Hospital Appliance Company, and who says there is every prospect of locating a big factory here for the manufacture of hospital supplies, spent today in Alexandria interviewing city officials and officers of the Chamber of Commerce relative to securing three blocks of land in the northeastern section, owned by the city, as a site for his factory. He wants the ordinance which was passed eight years ago, leasing him this land with the privilege of purchasing the same, re-enacted and says that as soon as this is done he will ask for bids for the construction of the factory buildings and houses for the employees. He will give Alexandria contractors an opportunity to estimate on the work which will cost $250,000.

Dr. Luria says that his company is capitalized at $500,000, and they have $400,000 cash already paid in. Contracts amounting to many thousand dollars have already been signed with European governments.

Dr. Luria stated that he prefers Alexandria to any other location, but that if he cannot secure the site desired, his company will have to accept one of the several favorable propositions which have been offered by other cities.

GERMAN BLOCKADE

Fears That a Spanish Steamer Has Struck a Mine

London, Feb. 19—Grave fears that the Spanish steamer Horacio has been sunk by a German mine are entertained here following the picking up of a life boat belonging to the vessel off Goodwin's Point. The Horacio left Bilboa one week ago bound for west Hartlepool.

London, Feb. 19—The first day of the "bread war" passed without any efforts of Germany to launch her terrific mine and submarine attack against English shipping being reported.

Sea traffic between France and England through the English Channel has been maintained as usual, according to reports of the movements of steamers posted here. Four liners, the Adriatic, Zeeland, Corsican and Ortega arrived safely at Liverpool today. Their passengers reported their voyage had been without incident, even across the Irish Sea, where it had been expected the German submarine might strike the first blow.
